

Medication Injustice

More than 500,000 deaths annually in sub-Saharan Africa are directly linked to substandard and falsified medications. With only 10%-30% of the demand for medicines in Sub-Saharan Africa being met, reliance on imported drugs exposes millions to dangers.

Envisioning Access

Med Aditus Foundation, a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, envisions a thriving Africa where every individual has equitable access to safe, effective, and affordable medications. We aim to eradicate medication injustice, the systemic disparities that deny individuals the right to essential therapies.

Our Values

Our Commitments

- Promote local pharmaceutical manufacturing.
- Empower women through healthcare leadership programs.
- Develop skilled healthcare workers through university partnerships.
- Fight counterfeit medicines, substandard drugs, and misinformation.
- Support individuals with Sickle Cell Disease in sub-Saharan Africa.

Our Impact

Our achievements demonstrate success:

- Created Med Aditus Pharmaceuticals and Med Aditus Pharmaceuticals Kenya for local medicines production.
- Partnered with key universities, organizations, and government entities.
- Assisted in funding of the launch of a drug manufacturing operation in Kisumu, Kenya.

Our Goals

Your philanthropy can catalyze transformative change:

- Advancing gender parity to boost health, economies, and equity.
- Minimizing the healthcare worker deficit in Africa.
- Eliminating barriers to Sickle Cell Disease care through early diagnosis, treatment, and advocacy.
- Equipping communities with tools to combat health misinformation.
